sonatas and partitas over two concerts*

Friday 8 June at 7.30pm & Sunday 10 June at 3.00pm

Ben Cruft is a professional violinist who has worked with a range of orchestras and quartets. He has been fascinated since childhood by Johann Sebastian Bach's set of unaccompanied Sonatas and Partitas for violin. He feels that by the early 1980s these masterpieces had become well-known through recordings but were still neglected as a set in live performances. In 1987 he presented the six works in a pair of concerts and has continued to do so on many occasions. The concert in Witcham will be the 99th time he has presented them in this form.
